DiscussIT Topic 6: Where is our country headed?

Discuss IT Topic: Over the last week, our country has had growing concerns on immigration bans, border safety, and executive orders that remind us of issues that have been plaguing our country for years. Now that Trump has been elected President, there has been people threatening to blow up the White House, human right protests, and a plethora of other sensitive subject matters that are very compelling to individual groups of people. Why have these issues come up now as we head into a time in which it seems no one is going to be happy with the outcomes? Will this create a split in this country and place citizens against one another when it comes to their views? In your opinion, what other topics are at the forefront of concern? Explain...

Response: Please make sure all grammar, spelling, indentation, and punctuation is correct.

The 2016 election is over. Donald Trump is our new president. However, some people weren't happy with the result. It opens up a lot of subject matters that seem very compelling to other groups of people. So, why are these issues coming up now?

Well, it's because they don't want to see America in ruins. Some people are concerned of what Trump stands for in various topics. Now that he's our new president, this will split the country. In my opinion, the other topics in the forefront are taxes and education. There's a lot of topics that are getting talked about, but that's my opinion.

This can split the country in half now that Donald Trump is president. On one hand, there's some people who are happy that Donald Trump's president. On the other hand, there are other people who feel the exact opposite. As I said before, this will split the country in half. We'll just wait and see what the future holds for the United States of America.
